3 A Resolution on Responsible Meeting Practice

4 A Prudential Resolution

5 APPROVED

6 Submitted by: The Hawaii Conference
7

8 Summary

9 Meetings of our church can be deeply reflective and teachable moments with a profound impact 10 on the communities in which we gather. This resolution builds on the robust policies of the 11 United Church of Christ regarding environmental, economic, and social justice stewardship to 12 create implementable, educational, and just stewardship (e.g., sustainable) practices for church 13 meetings.

14 Just and responsible practices are foundational to all discussions of sustainability today. The 15 classic definition of sustainability as a practice that balances social, economic, and 16 environmental opportunities is found in the Brundtland Commission Statement of 1987: “To 17 meet the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet 18 their own needs.” A more spiritually-focused description is: “To live wisely within God’s 19 creation by way of conservation, compassion, and co-creation, honoring the generations that 20 have gone before and those that will follow.”

21 Biblical and Theological Rationale

22 The Bible begins with the assertion that God created the world as it was intended to be, for “God 23 saw everything God had made, and indeed it was very good” (Genesis 1:31a).

24 The Psalmist reminds us that the earth belongs to God, for “the earth is the Lord’s and all that is 25 in it, the world and those who live in it, for God has founded it on the seas, and established it on 26 the rivers” (Psalm 24:1-2).

27 The prophet Isaiah tells us of God’s restorative nature for humanity and for the world: “For I will 28 pour water on the thirsty land, and streams on the dry ground; I will pour my spirit upon your 29 descendants, and my blessing on your offspring. They shall spring up like a green tamarisk, like 30 willows by flowing streams. This one will say, ‘I am the Lord’s’ (Isaiah 44:3-5a).”

31 The Book of Acts encourages us to ask for forgiveness so we and our environment may be 32 refreshed: “Repent therefore, and turn to God so that your sins may be wiped out, so that times of 33 refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, and that he may send the Messiah appointed 34 for you, that is, Jesus, who must remain in heaven until the time of universal restoration that God 35 announced long ago through his holy prophets” (Acts 3:19-21).

36 The prophet Micah reminds us of our responsibility to the creation and as the created: “God has 37 told you, O mortal, what is good: and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to 38 love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?” (Micah 6:8).

39 General Synods of the United Church of Christ have repeatedly articulated these biblical 40 understandings of profound interconnectedness and inseparability and have called the churches 41 to creation care and social justice.

Resolution

WHEREAS the Tenth General Synod (1975) affirmed a “shalom” call to “wholeness, integrity, social justice and reconciliation” by being “responsible custodians of the natural order and prophetic witnesses for social justice”; and,

WHEREAS the Fourteenth General Synod (1983), echoing the biblical image in Genesis chapters one and two of service to, and care of, all that God has created, proclaimed our covenantal responsibility “to understand the world as God’s creation [and therefore,] to understand our responsibility as God’s stewards, and our accountability to God as tenants”; and,

WHEREAS the Seventeenth General Synod (1985) identified as a priority concern for six years “to address in a major, all-church effort a crucial concern of our time,” the Integrity of Creation, Justice and Peace, which affirmed “that the biblical vision of shalom—justice and peace and integrity of creation—is central to the Christian identity of members of the United Church of Christ,” and called for an “intentionally collaborative effort to address the Priority”; and,

WHEREAS the Twenty-second General Synod (1999) resulted in the UCC becoming one of the first denominations to recognize the crisis of global warming and affirmed the biblical mandate of stewardship and kinship, and recognized that the response to such a mandate must emanate from “addressing our own lifestyles (institutional and personal)”; and,

WHEREAS the Twenty-fifth General Synod (2005) embraced the connection between the common good for all peoples and responsible environmental stewardship by recognizing “that the integrity of creation and the health and sustainability of ecological systems is the necessary foundation for the well-being of all people and all living things for all time”; and,

WHEREAS the Twenty-sixth General Synod (2007) affirmed that irresponsible human actions have created not only a “profound sense of urgency” for God’s creation, but also an unconscionably disproportionate “impact on those living in poverty, the least developed countries, the elderly and children and those least responsible for the emissions of greenhouse gases,” and “urge[d] all segments of the Church to address global warming in their decisions and investments and in their educational and advocacy efforts”; and,

WHEREAS as people of faith we are privileged to be partners both as individuals and as faithful bodies (local churches, associations, conferences, and General Synod) with Jesus Christ, the firstborn of all creation (Colossians 1:15), in the good work of reconciling in justice and love the entire creation that it may again be one and whole; and,

WHEREAS the United Church of Christ has a history of responding powerfully to issues in which social justice and creation care are intertwined and inseparable, such as the apology to Native Hawaiian people, which emanated from the challenge issued forth at the Ecumenical Conference on Tourism in Hawaii in 1989, for the complicit role of our antecedent bodies in the overthrow of the Hawaiian monarchy in 1893; and

WHEREAS every day new practices and products emerge that reuse more resources and have the potential to reduce the amount of waste, pollution, and degradation we create, and provide new and just opportunities in an economy oriented towards creating a sustainable future for all that God has created; and,

1 WHEREAS, our choices of meeting venue can bear prophetic witness to a community, as 2 exemplified by the Executive Council’s decision to change the venue of the Twenty-sixth
3 General Synod in commitment to be in solidarity with striking workers at our original venue 4 despite the inconvenience it caused; and,

5 WHEREAS we seek to be biblical people whose very actions reflect a life of true faithfulness;

6 THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Twenty-seventh General Synod of the United 7 Church of Christ urges its churches and members to consider adopting personal, congregational, 8 and community habits that reflect the interconnectedness and inseparability of creation care and 9 social justice; and,

10 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the General Synod encourages all expressions of the 11 United Church of Christ (local church, association, conference, and all national expressions) to 12 plan and hold meetings, events, and programs in such a way that the interconnection and 13 inseparability of creation care and social justice, as appropriate for the venue or location, are 14 modeled; and that consideration is given to issues such as energy and water consumption, food 15 origin, labor relations, waste and waste stream minimization, material re-usage and recycling, 16 and accessibility to all, and minimization of travel; and that education be offered to meeting 17 attendees, local community members, and vendors on all these issues where possible and 18 practical; and,

19 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that Justice and Witness Ministries, in consultation with 20 Office of General Ministries, develop a document that offers guidelines and suggestions for 21 responsible meeting practices to be made available to all expressions of the UCC; and,

22 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that expressions of the United Church of Christ that be 23 encouraged to adopt this resolution and commit to its practice and implementation at a 24 minimum, in all meetings within their settings; and,

25 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Twenty-eighth General Synod in 2011 and all future
26 General Synods after 2011 shall attempt to integrate this planning mechanism into its process, 27 procedures, and execution.
